Event Management

Throw away the diary, the confused address book, the tired Excel spreadsheets and the old booking forms.

Presentations, seminars and fundraising events can be scheduled. Interested parties are informed and can register electronically. Attendee information is collated for the event manager.

- Event information is published online, to e-mail subscribers and in print for mail outs.
- Attendees register online or using the pre-printed application form.
- Invoices are automatically mail merged.
- Group e-mails to all attendees are generated.
- All event information can be accessed in Excel for ad-hoc requirements.

Latest News

The first place people look for latest information is your website. They phone for details or simply give up if it cannot be found. You have to type newsletters by hand and manage who those newsletters are sent to.

- Publish press releases direct to the web.
- Print news sheets automatically generated.
- E-mailed news direct to journalists, sponsors and employees.

Resources

How do people find out more about your charity's field? New, useful resources appear on the internet on a daily basis. Search engine results can be patchy.

- Put additional information links on your site as they become available.
- Include comments explaining why the resource is relevant.
- Improve understanding of your charity.

Customisation

This is your application, your information, your brand. Juneberry is completely customisable to incorporate your branding and design preferences.

- Use existing logos and colour schemes for all web and print content.
- Layout the site to emphasise the aspects that are important to you.
- Ask about your particular requirements, we can accommodate them.
